All hay prices quoted are dollars per ton FOB point of origin for alfalfa hay unless otherwise noted.

The information presented in this report is compiled from public and private quality tested sales and reports in the Midwest.

The past several months of hay reports are archived and you may view previous hay reports, go to <http://fyi.uwex.edu/forage/> on the Team Forage web site and click on the past hay reports section.

Hay auction data is collected on the first and third week of the month and posted by or before Tuesday. Prices quoted in this report are for “as fed” alfalfa hay.

Demand and Sales Comments

Dairy quality hay continues to be in demand. The market was strong on a light test this week with limited hay at the auction. If you need forage or have forage to sell or straw, connect to the Farmer-to-Farmer webpage at <http://farmertofarmer.uwex.edu/>. You may contact your local county agriculture educator if you need help placing an ad. There is no charge for the service.

Straw prices are for oat, barley, or wheat straw. Straw prices are steady with a limited supply of straw. Small square bales averaged $4.50 a bale (range of $3.40 to $6.00). Large square bale straw averaged $47.00 per bale (a range of $28.00 to $64.00). Large round bale straw averaged $52.00 per bale (a range of $48.00 - $55.00).

In Nebraska, hay prices were steady with good demand for ground and delivered alfalfa. Demand backed off a tick this week. In Iowa, supply is good, demand is steady, and prices are steady.

In South Dakota, alfalfa prices are firm. Very good demand for all classes of hay. There are some drought concerns in the state.

In Missouri, prices are steady with moderate supply and limited sales. Currently rain has slowed progress in hay making.

In Southwest Minnesota, prices were steady. In Kansas, market prices were steady, demand remains good for alfalfa. Recent rains have reduced drought concern.

In Wisconsin, prices are steady for dairy quality hay. Lower quality or higher moisture hay is being discounted.

The next Hay Market Demand and Price Report for the Upper Midwest will be posted by Tuesday, August 10, 2021.
